COMING PLAYS AT THE THEATRES

After-Christmas Season to Exce That Preceding Holidays.

GIFFEN COMPANY THIS WEEK

Will Play "Young Mrs. Winthrop"-"Her Marriage Vow " to Be Given by Geo. Fawcett Company at Bljou. "Ten Nights in a Barroom."

The mad whirl of the Christmas festival invariably blights the box office, and managers are anxious not the turn of the tius. Whether this is because of the rush that precedes the hollsome cause there is that makes the latter half of the season the most profitable, and it is particularly the case in michmond where somenty-five per cent of the profit of the season is made after Janua.y L.

in Alcamond the bookings speak for themselves. The best attractions are year to come although the first part of the season has been more than usually prolific in good things. Mansfield, Crane, Robson, Glaser, the Four Cohans, John Drew, Jefferson, The Bostonians, Floradota, and a host of other attractions of that calibre are names to conjure with and there is never any doubt when one and there is never any doubt when one of these is announced that there will be a rush for scats and that the Academy will be crowded in every part.

Manager Leath, who has been waging war against the ticket scalpers ever since he has nad the management of the Richmond Academy, made the unpleasant dis-covery last week that a regular theatreticket bureau had been established in a barber's shop in this city for the sale of free passes to his theatre. Seats that sold at the box office for one dollar and a dollar-and-a-half could be procured at this establishment for thirty-live cents and a haif-a-dollar. The discovery led to a new a rangement at the Academy which it is believed will effectually put a stop to this traffic in the future.

Manager Leath leaves next Friday for a two weeks trip to Florida. He will spend Christmas-day in Tampa and the New Year Pine Beach. During his absence. Mr. Charles W. Rex will be in charge of the entire business interests of the Academy enterprise,

The Christmas-day attraction at the Academy will be "Way Down East." In Norfolk James O'Nell, and in Newport News, The Giffen Company.

"Audrey" is booked for a return engagement at the Academy early in January. The play will be taken through the South, where it may recuperate from the chilling blasts it met with in the North.

"A Night Off" will be given at the Bijou Theatre the first three nights of this week, by the George Fawcett comin New York at Daly's Theatre, with a cast which included Ada Rehan and John Through financial misfortunes he is induced to permit a travelling the-atrical manager, Marcus Brutus Snap, to see the play, all except the professor's wife, who knows nothing whatever of the arrangement. The subsequent developtragedy, for serious results come from the

There are two love stories which concentrate attention upon some amusing comedy love scenes. Harry Damask, in order to silence a jealous wife, confesses to martial esecapades of which Jack Mulberry is really guilty. This complicates matters further. Ada Rehan role of Nisbe will be played this week by Miss Jane Oaker, who has already firmly established herself in local popularity by her beauty and talents. The role originated by John Drew will be entrusted to Frederick G. Lewis.

Regan Hughston will be seen as Harry Damask, and Miss Virginia Kline will be seen as the jealous wife. Alfred Hudson, the well-known comedian, will have the role of Professor Babbitt, the elderly professor. Miss Alice Butler will be seen as the professor's wife. The play will be given only on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, and at the matinee Tuesday, owing to prior contracts which cannot be cancelled.

The stock company organized to control the Giffen Company in this territory for the space of two years is one of the strongest and most representative corporations in the city. It is made up of publishers connection with lic-spirited men, whose connection with this enterprise alone is sufficient evidence of the place it has taken among the establishments of the city.

tablishments of the city.

The company is in a fair way to enjoy a most prosperous season. A wonderfully attractive list of plays has been secured for presentation, and the company ir its present form, is possibly the strongest Mr. Giffen has ever put together. After Christmas there is a probability that wire Margaret Illington may join that Miss Margaret Illington may join the organization as leading lady. Miss Illington has been with E. H. Sothern all this season in "If I Were King." She has this season in the successful, and only by reason of her physique is she unable to appear with Mr. Sothern in his produc-tion of "Hamlet," shortly to be seen in

The week will open at the Academy to-morrow night with a spectacular pro-duction of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." The play is to be done by local talent, under the auspices of temperance societies of this city.

The dramatised novel, the play with a The dramatised novel, the play with a mission, a moral that counts, all these things and more, is this same play, "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." It is full of human nature and it is salutary in its teaching. Yet it is not didactic. It aims to convince the mind and heart by a series of pictures, showing the effects of drink, the curse of drunkenness, and then by contrast, the happiness that is to be reaped from a pure and wholesome be reaped from a pure and wholesome life. It inculcates the doctrine that it is never too late to mend, and the rescue of the poor drunkard after many years of suffering and want, is one of the most delightful features of this play.

The Giffen Company will return to the Academy on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week in "Young Mrs. Winthrop." The seats go on sale for this engagement to-morrow morning.

The play is known here at least by report. It is essentially a society affa'r and tells a story of domestic infelicity, which threatens to lead the divorce court and pauses on the threshold where a rereat misunderstandings, and how mar-ied people sometimes drift apart for reasons that are in reality quite inconsequent, is depicted with all the skill of the dramatist, and with this warp and woof as a basis, a wonderfully attract-wood as a basis, a wonderrany attractive play has been woven.

The piece will of course be staged with all of Manager Giffen's care. That goes without saying. And in the light of the success of "Rosemary," and "Captain Swift," a thoroughly delightful performance is assured.

"Her Marriage Vow." which is claimed by the management to be somewhat of an innovation in the sensational comedy line, will be the offering at the Bijou for Thursday, Friday and Saturday week with matinees Thursday and Satur-

The play is said to have every element of sensation and many exciting situations. It has many realistic railroad scenes and the plot is laid among these in a quiet little hamlet near Boston. John Carlton, son of a railroad Superintendent, sup-poses his marriage to Kate Walters, the pretty daughter of an engineer, is a mocker y, and he plans to marry Hester Norton, the heartless, but rich daughter of a railroad magnate.

Daffy Dan with a weak brain caused by a beating he received from Carlton ad whom the latter holds as a slavdo all manner of villainy, but who, in his ucids moments, thinks out ways to thwart his master because of his baseness to Kate Walters—had engaged a real mony proves to have been legal. ton, upon learning this, is determined to he attempts to wreck two express trains coming from opposite directions—on one of which Kate and her father are travel-'ng to Boston-by turning a switch which will cause a head-on collision.

He is frustrated in this by Ned Benton. a former sweetheart of Kate's, who, after a desperate struggle with the vilain, rights the switch just as the two carcerated in an insane asylum, but Daffy Dan leads him and his gang into a trap, and after a hand to hand struggle, an all by throwing Carlton over a rocky cliff

Among the members of the presenting company, which is said to be an excep-tionally clever one, are the Misses Will'e E. Francis, El'zabeth Rathburn, Ashley, and Eva Benton, and the Messrs. W. A. Whitecar, Thomas Irwin Henry Buckley, James A. Weaver, and Louis F.

Henry Buckler, who created the diffi-cult role of Darfy Dan, the imbecile vil-lage youth in "Her Marriage Vow," and is making one of the distinct hits of the production, is a young actor who has been seen in this city on saveral occasions, and gives promise of appearing ome day in a more important capacity, four seasons ago he played liere with Frederick Warde, appearing in a small part, and discharging the duties of assistant. part, and discharging the duties of assistant stage manager. The following season he also appeared here with Warde conciliation is reached and the true state of feelings of the husband and wife are the revealed.

How little differences are apt to lead to duction of "Quo Vadis." Lest season he tour joined Howard Gould in "Brother Officers."
